ADVERTISING VERSUS MERIT.

ITS APPLICATION TO THE RISE AND FALL OF PROPRIETARY MEDICINES.

In introducing to the reader the celebrated DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS ALMANAC for 1901, attention is first directed to a very important fact, as demonstrating clearly the merit which must of necessity be possessed by this great remedy. Someone has seen fit to term this the patent medicine age, and though it may be considered somewhat irrelevant, as applied to a period which has been marked by the most wonderful progress in the world's history, it will not, we fancy, be at all difficult to find the ground upon which the application is based. All that is needed, in fact, on the part of the seeker, is the sense of sight and a fairly comprehensive grasp of the Anglo-Saxon language. No matter in which direction one feels impelled to turn just now he is likely to be confronted by the name of some alleged panacea for human ills. The newspapers teem with them; they are used to deface the board fences in almost every rural district; their high-sounding praises are shouted at you from the roofs and sides of tumble-down barns and out-buildings, and even the everlasting pills, if they happen to afford a coign of vantage to the painter and his brush, are pressed into service with the same aim in view. All these come under the generic name—patent medicines—but few, and very few, have any right to the appellation beyond the single word which conveys to the reader the information that their sale has been legalized. They are patented, no doubt, but beyond that fact they should be taken, if taken at all, with some more powerful antidote than the traditional grain of salt. And it will not be difficult for the searcher after cause and effect, to make discoveries in this direction also. The origin of a great portion of the flood of what has come to be known as patent medicine literature, is found in the changed conditions by which the news of the world of to-day is disseminated. Half a century ago, as the result of scientific discovery, perhaps half a dozen remedies were placed on the market. Being honest and of genuine merit they found favor with the public. A knowledge of their worth was perhaps long in becoming widely known because, in those days, the facilities for news dissemination were lacking, but gradually their fame spread and ultimately a financial benefit accrued to their owners or discoverers. What followed is easy to outline. Stimulated by the financial success of their worthy predecessors a large number of shrewd, but unscrupulous business men, took advantage of the great progress made in the art of printing to reap a like reward. It mattered little to them whether the article they placed on the market had any merit or not. They were simply in the business for what profit it promised. Some were successful; hundreds were unsuccessful; success or failure in nearly all such cases being gauged almost wholly by the business acumen and the financial backing of the promoters. Even where success was attained it must not be taken for granted that merit was behind the article. It was due in a majority of the cases to the judicious use of printer's ink, and though the term "judicious" often involves the expenditure of enormous sums of money, it generally means that the pockets of the consumer, not the producer, are emptied in the process. To-day, the business of newspaper advertising affords an interesting study to the civilized world and offers an object lesson, nowhere else to be found, of the great power contained in the art preservative of all arts.

In marked contradistinction to the methods outlined above has been the rise and permanence of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. Originally placed on the market at a time when newspaper advertising was not the science it is to-day, their sale and increasing favor with the public had to rely solely on their ability to cure bodily ailments. It is the proud and publicly proclaimed boast of certain patent medicine proprietors to-day that they are spending over half a million dollars yearly in advertising their wares through the newspapers, in addition to vast sums devoted to the same end in other directions, a practical admission that the wares themselves, if left alone to the merit which they possess, would soon drop from public sight and public favor. Such has been the fate of dozens, nay hundreds of so-called remedies within the memory of most of our readers. Under the stimulus of careful and extensive advertising their sales were enormous; left to themselves they quickly dropped from sight and are now but a memory. It is the proud boast of the W. H. Comstock Co. that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been before the people for over sixty years, that during that time less than $200 has been expended in advertising them through the newspapers, and that to-day, simply as a result of the curative properties which they possess, they are in greater demand than ever before in their history. They have stood the great test of time.

AN INTERESTING STORY.

How the Celebrated Morse's Indian Root Pills Came Before the Public.

In view of the fact that this remedy has been growing steadily in favor for over half a century, it is fair to assume that the public would be interested in a brief resume of the circumstances attendant upon its first introduction to the world. Dr. Morse, whose fame rests largely upon the discovery of these remedial agents, was the son of well-to-do parents, and was given the most thorough medical education, which the colleges of seventy years ago were capable of affording. In ordinary cases the selection of a location and the working up of a practice would have followed, but the elder Morse was not an ordinary man. Having convinced himself that his son had thoroughly mastered the theory of medicine he advised the pursuit of practical knowledge, but along a different line from that usually followed. This included a lengthened visit to several Indian tribes who were commonly reputed to have discovered a method by which certain plants, herbs and roots were used with remarkable success in curing the more common forms of illness. The young practitioner readily embraced the suggestion and for two or three years practically abandoned civilization and made his home among the Indians. He learned their language, entered heartily into their sports and daily occupations, made himself familiar with their legends and history and in time so won their good will and confidence as to effect the real object of his visit, —an insight into the manner in which their natural remedies were compounded. Returning home without notifying his parents he found his aged father on what was thought to be his death-bed, and here, right at the outset of his career as a medical practitioner, was the opportunity given him to test the efficacy of what he had spent some years to acquire. The result probably astonished himself. It certainly had that effect, not only upon the physicians who had given over their aged patient to the grim reaper, but likewise upon all those in the neighborhood who had been apprised of the facts. Having brought home with him a quantity of vegetable ingredients, the young doctor made them into pills and by their use soon had the patient not only on his feet again, but in better health than for many years. Naturally the story of the remarkable cure spread widely, demands for the new cure commenced coming in rapidly and ultimately the young physician found himself obliged to give up his medical practice altogether and confine his attention wholly to the manufacture of what is now known throughout the civilized world as Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

The W. H. Comstock Co.

Sir: I suffered for three years with pain in my right side and under shoulder blade; had headache, distress in my stomach and no appetite. I have taken two boxes of Morse's Indian Root Pills and am pleased to say the pains have left and I have no more headaches. Am thankful the pills came in my way.

Respectfully,

MARY J. HAMILTON.

DYSPEPSIA.

This is a disease which, in this age of good living, has become alarmingly prevalent. It usually entails the keenest suffering, and instances are not wanting where it has been known to terminate fatally. The stomach, failing to do its work thoroughly, is primarily responsible for the disease. Morse's Pills have been proven very efficacious in the banishment of this ailment; but those afflicted, while taking the treatment, should closely observe the following very important rules:

1st. Take your food slowly, masticate thoroughly and eat only at regular meal times.

2nd. Avoid all fatty substances, pastry, fresh bread and greasy dishes.

Watch closely the effect of what you eat, and when anything you have taken is followed by distress, carefully avoid such in future.

No medicine can successfully cope with this distressing ailment unless the patient will follow some of the more common and more sensible forms of dieting. In conjunction with dieting MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS can be relied upon to effect a cure.

Dear Sirs: I have been troubled with dyspepsia for many years. I have tried every doctor that I could find and none did me any good. I have been taking your pills and they have cured me. I can say that they are the best medicine that ever struck this country and I keep them all the time.

Respectfully yours,

Mrs. HANNAH NELSON.

 Leave tea and coffee alone. Take plenty of time to eat, and it is best to let five or six hours intervene between meals. Salt baths are an aid and exercise in the open air should be taken.

Gents: I have suffered from gastric dyspepsia for ten years and was unable to find relief until I began to take Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. The medicine has given me great relief, and I believe it has no equal as a cure for indigestion. I always keep them by me and recommend them to my friends.

Faithfully yours,

Mrs. NELLIE P. CLOUGH.

Sirs: Having been severely afflicted, for a long time, with dyspepsia, I was induced to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. In a very short time their use effected a complete cure, and I confidently recommend them as a first-class family medicine, and doing all that the proprietors claim for them.

Yours truly,

FRANK STERTZ.

Gents : I have suffered for three years with biliousness and have just used two boxes of Dr. Morse's Pills. The pain has entirely left my side, appetite is good, headache is gone, and I am thankful for such a wonderful remedy as the Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. The world cannot beat them.

BILIOUSNESS.

To the man who is bilious life is practically a burden. Though often the sufferer may possess an abnormal appetite he has no desire to exert himself in any direction. His sleep is troubled, he has pains under his shoulder blades, a bitter taste remains in his mouth; the tongue is often furred; there is a sudden dizziness when arising from a sitting or stooping position, and while the bowels may be loose and natural one day, constipation is present the next. All this is brought about by the natural sewers of the body becoming clogged up and the bile in the stomach denied its rightful channel, is turned into the blood. It may and often does lead to the most dangerous forms of disease, as when suffering from biliousness ones body is much more susceptible to the lodgement of disease, than when in its normal state.

Taken as per the directions on each box Morse's Indian Root Pills are a speedy and almost infallible cure for biliousness. Their effects are manifested by a complete change in the spirits of the patient, who again begins to feel that life is worth the living after all. It is impossible to give explicit directions for the taking of the pills in this or any other disease, for all people are Gentlemen : For over 30 years I have suffered, being compelled to take castor oil two or three times a week, until within the last two years. About that time I began the use of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills and since then all complaints have disappeared, and I am thankful to be able to say that to-day I am free from all sickness.

I feel in duty bound to make public the cause of my recovery. I am now 67 years of age, but for the last twenty-five years have suffered from bowel troubles and biliousness, trying every known medicine without the desired result. Thank God I am cured at last. My recovery is due to less than two months' use of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

The W. H. Comstock Co.

Dear Sirs: For several years my head ached almost constantly and I had but very little appetite during that time. Your Dr. Morse's Pills were highly recommended to me by a friend and I after taking four boxes I was as well as ever in my life. I always keep them in the house.

Yours truly,

A. MARQUIS.

CONSTIPATION.

This is another very common ailment, so common in fact, that its presence usually does not alarm the sufferer and very often he neglects it until as a natural result the accumulation of filth in the system leads to the most dangerous forms of disease. These include inflammation of the bowels, liver complaint, heart trouble, rheumatism and neuralgia. The patient should see that the bowels are opened freely but as naturally as possible, and this can be most successfully accomplished by the judicious use of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. Usually in chronic cases a regular course is necessary. It is an easy matter to get temporary relief by the immediate use of the pills but a complete cure can be effected if the patient will continue taking them in small doses for a considerable time instead of an occasional large dose. One pill after each meal will often aid digestion with some patients while others do not require such frequent doses. In all cases the patient should closely observe the action of the pills and will thus soon be able to judge just how often and what sized doses are most suitable. He need have no fear in making the experiment as Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills contain no dangerous drugs and are not harmful under any condition. In taking treatment for constipation the diet should be carefully regulated. There are many forms of food calculated to have a constipating effect on the bowels.

I was treated by several physicians for an aggravated form of constipation, but got no permanent help until I yielded to the advice of some friends, who recommended Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. I took three boxes and can honestly say that I was positively cured. I hope I shall never be without them.

Dear Sirs: I would not be without Morse's Indian Root Pills if they cost one dollar per box. They are the best pills in the market. Everybody here thinks them the best medicine they ever used and have recommended them to their friends.

Gents: "I am 62 years of age and while not subject to any of the ills that afflict so many, I have used Dr. Morse's Pills for the past five years and feel as young in body and spirits as I did at 30. I attribute this to your pills which I would not be without for many times their price.

Nine years ago I was afflicted with neuralgia, liver and kidney disease. My physician frankly confessed he had done everything, and was satisfied I could not get well. Despite this fact I determined not to die, and procured a box of Dr. Morse's Pills, actuated by the motives that a drowning man grasps at straws.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

According to the late Sir Andrew Clark, physician extraordinary to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, the liver is the direct cause of nine-tenths of the ills which flesh is heir to. It is the largest gland of the human body and naturally has an enormous amount of work to perform, as through its curious cells and its marvelous arrangement of arteries and valves, every particle of blood must pass many times each day. As soon as its functions become interfered with the patient has sharp pains in the right side or dull pains under the shoulder blades, his complexion assumes a yellowish hue, he loses his appetite, constipation is noted and sometimes nausea and vomiting ensue. All these usually induce irritability of temper and make the patient a miserable man indeed. Talmage, the noted Brooklyn preacher, tells us that many a consecrated man has lost his hope of Heaven and sunk chin deep in the Slough of Despond under the impression that he had sinned against his God when in reality it was bile not sin that was drawing him down to that condition of mind. To all such relief, sure and speedy, is afforded by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, which owe much of their wonderful favor with Gents: For a long time I was subject to the most severe form of sick headache and though having recourse to many medicines got no relief until I tried Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. I therefore feel a keen pleasure in recommending them to the public as a pill which will do just what is claimed for them.

Mrs. MARY A. STUCK.

SICK HEADACHE.

Headaches are of various kinds and from various causes, though the prefix "sick" is usually applied to all. Some are the result of neuralgia, others arise from the stomach and some are due to an affection of the eyes, but in all the patient usually feels badly enough to class them as of the sick variety. Certain it is that no more distressing ailment could well be imagined than a sick headache. If let alone they sometimes become chronic and in that event the sufferer is practically unfitted for any form of labor. They are usually the result of a disordered stomach and yield readily to Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, as through these remedial agents the bowels are first naturally opened and ultimately put in that condition, whereby they are enabled to perform their functions regularly and as nature intended. In this process the blood is also improved, and the body becoming stronger is in a position to ward off the ailment. In chronic cases a longer course of treatment is of necessity needed, but we have seldom heard of a case of sick headache which Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills failed to cure in a comparatively short time. Being made wholly of vegetable ingredients they are not drastic in any sense and

Sault St. Marie, Ont.,
Jan. 10, 1900.

W. H. Comstock Co.,

Sirs: Liberation from misery and a recall to the pleasures of life, are surely sufficient reason why I should write to thank you for your great remedy, Morse's Indian Root Pills. Jaundice, my old enemy, has been banished, and I can cheerfully recommend them for this malady.

Respectfully yours,
CHAS. HALL.

JAUNDICE.

This is in reality a symptom of a disease rather than a disease itself, though it has most unpleasant characteristics and soon manifests itself to many unfortunates as well as to those with whom they are thrown in contact. It is manifested in a yellowish tinge of the skin and eyes and, as in all diseases of the liver, it is due to the passage of bile into the blood instead of into its natural channel, the intestines. Usually the bowels are constipated, the urine of a dark color or saffron tint, the tongue coated with a yellowish fur, and almost constant pains over the liver and in the head. In its most aggravated form it results in the formation of yellowish spots about different parts of the body. At times the victim of jaundice may not suffer much physical pain but the ravages of the disease are very apparent in the symptoms above described. Occasionally cases are reported where the body of the patient is sore to such an extent that walking becomes painful and even the clothing worn occasions uneasiness. The bowels refuse to act except under the influence of strong purgatives and the appetite almost completely vanishes. These are, however, unusual cases. Upon the first symptoms of the disease, or in fact in all cases where it is apparent the liver is not doing its work properly, recourse should be had at once to Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills and relief will be certain.

Sirs: I have been selling your Pills for four years. My customers cannot do without them. My son was suffering from jaundice and his life was despaired of. I began the use of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, and after giving them to him a few times we all saw an improvement, which continued until he was quite well.

Yours truly,
LAURA A. NUTTER.

Sirs: I am able to say to those who may be suffering from that disagreeable complaint, Jaundice, not to give up, even if you have been using other remedies. Give Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills a thorough trial and be convinced, as I was, of their wonderful curative properties.

Yours, etc.,
GEO. KENDRICK.

Walker, W. Va.,
July, 6, 1899.

The W. H. Comstock Co.
Morristown, N. Y.

Gentlemen: I have used your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills for the past 16 years and can recommend them to anyone as a genuine article. They have saved me many a doctor's bill as I always have made a practice of keeping them on hand.

Very respectfully,
L. L. ROBINSON.

NEURALGIA.

This terribly painful ailment is usually preceded by a feeling of weight or a sense of heat at the point where the affection rests. It may come on abruptly without any symptoms whatever, or it may bother one for some time before it really manifests itself in its most painful form. The pain will usually be in the trunk or branch of a nerve and when steady is inclined to be dull, but in acute cases is of a darting or cutting nature. One of its most general causes is constipation, from which so many other ills emanate. The wisest course to pursue is to first secure a prompt evacuation of the bowels, which can be readily accomplished with Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. Once this is done see that regularity is enforced. Should the pain be especially keen from the start it can usually be relieved by the application of a mustard plaster. To prevent blistering, a small quantity of flour should be mixed with the mustard. Sometimes hot water bottles are used for the same purpose, and not infrequently twenty-five drops of tincture of opium in a little water will afford relief. This is the dose for an adult. Brown bread, oatmeal, fresh fruit, vegetables, etc., can be used regularly as food, and meat also in moderation, though the latter should never be fried. If coffee is taken, no sugar should be used with it. To insure immunity from the disease the bowels should be kept open regularly with the pills.

Fayetteville, Tenn.,
July 13, 1899.

Gentlemen: In the past 16 years I have been a regular user of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills and in that time have felt the need of a doctor but three times. The pills were my regular medicine and I think they are unapproachable both in warding off and curing the common forms of disease.

Respectfully yours,
B. G. STEPHENS.

Gents: Those who have suffered as I did from neuralgia and succeeded in banishing it with your excellent medicine, will fully appreciate my readiness in giving public testimony to its worth. Every house in those United States should have a supply of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Dear Sirs: For more than six years we have been using your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills and can say they always give perfect satisfaction. Therefore I advise all sensible people to give them a trial and after having once used them they will never be without them.

Yours truly,

Harrison Co., W. Va.,
April 8, 1899.

I have suffered from rheumatism for three years and tried all kinds of liniments but got no relief. I got so bad I could not sleep nights and commenced the use of Morse's Indian Root Pills, which seem to have done the business as in a short time I slept all right and am now doing my work on the farm. The pills were the greatest benefit to me.

RHEUMATISM.

In some respects at least this is one of the most dreaded diseases with which the human family is afflicted. On this continent, where climatic changes are frequent and sudden, it has become alarmingly prevalent and is to be dreaded, not alone on account of the great physical suffering involved, but also on account of the complications which often follow in its wake. One of the most dreaded of these is affections of the heart. For many years rheumatism was looked upon as purely a disease of the bones and joints, mainly for the reason that during its hold upon the system much pain was experienced in those localities. Science has proved, however, that rheumatism is primarily a disease of the blood, being due to the presence in the great river of life of what is technically known as uric acid. It is usually marked, as premonitory symptoms, by intense fever and restlessness, aching pains in the limbs, stiff joints which very soon become swollen and tender, pulse full and quick, secretions acrid, tongue moist but furred. The pains usually shift rapidly from one joint to the other. To cure rheumatism then it is absolutely essential that the blood shall be purified. The bowels should be gently but effectually opened by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, after which the patient should lie between warm blankets and wear flannel next to his person. Perspiration is usually excessive and the body should be rubbed thoroughly.

Gents: I have been a sufferer for several years with my kidnneys and rheumatism; was confined to my room most of the time. I was so bad that I could not sit and cross my legs. Your agent, Mr. Smith, persuaded me to try Morse's Indian Root Pills, and I am happy to say that after using three or four boxes I am about cured.

Gents: As an agent here for your Morse's Indian Root Pills I have two remarkable cases to report. Mrs. Albert Elsa and Thomas Barnett, both of whom have been terrible sufferers from rheumatism for years, have been effectually, and to all appearance, permanently cured by the pills. Their cases have caused considerable talk.

Gents: Some three years ago I suffered severely with rheumatism in my left hip and also down my left leg to the knee joint. After taking a few doses of your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills my health improved and to-day I am all right. I would like to recommend the pills to every lady in the land.

Gents: A few boxes of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were worth at least $10 to me not long ago, as they saved me a doctor's bill, which I am satisfied would have amounted to that much and likely more. They effectually cured me of a terrible dose of fever and ague, and I am now right as a dollar.

ROSE A. FIELD.

MALARIAL FEVER.

Over a greater portion of this continent we happily enjoy immunity from this peculiar and distinctively unpleasant ailment. In some sections, however, notably parts of Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and other Western states, as well as farther South, it is decidedly prevalent, and the "shakes," as they are called by some, fever and ague by others, number their victims by the thousand. It is a purely local disease, and while one section may be widely noted for its percentage of fever and ague cases, perhaps the adjoining district knows nothing of it except by reputation. This is explainable by a difference in the soil conditions of the two sections. Malaria is due to a poisonous miasma, which arising from low swampy lands, where there is a surplus of decaying vegetable matter, becomes assimilated with the atmosphere and is accordingly breathed into the system. It cannot remain or, in fact, find a lodgement in a body free from impurities, and even a novice will thus see that the disease has no terror whatever to a person, all of whose organs are working as nature intended them to work. When the disease fastens itself therefore, it is incumbent on the patient to at once set about getting his blood in perfect condition. To do this it is necessary to first open the bowels, get the liver working properly, and as the blood becomes pure the disease must of necessity vanish. Morse's Pills will do the work.

Gents: I have been using Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills in my family for the last nine years, and they have given entire satisfaction and I take great pleasure in saying that I found them to be a wonderful pill for Liver complaint and Malarial Fever, which this country is most subject to, owing to its damp atmosphere

Gents: Some time since I was taken with malarial fever and had cause to test various remedies. I got no benefit from any of them and finally tried Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills with the most astonishing result. I was cured permanently and will gladly furnish any information, provided inquirers enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Sirs: One of our children was suffering severely with an attack of chills and fever. I bought a box of your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, and began treating the case myself with your medicine. My child very soon got well. Many thanks for such medicine.

Respectfully yours,

The W. H. Comstock Co.

Dear Sirs: Since using your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills I have become so improved in health that my friends say I do not look like the same person. I tell them that Morse's Indian Root Pills have done it. They always prove successful in all cases of dysentery.

Respectfully yours,
WM. DELHAVEN.

DYSENTERY.

This disease, by many confounded with diarrhoea, is for that reason greatly to be dreaded. It is a much more serious ailment than diarrhoea, as its consequences are often of a fatal nature. It is due directly to inflammation of the mucous membrane of the large intestine, whereas diarrhoea is simply an irritation. It usually exhibits itself in a painful desire for a movement of the bowels, inability to accomplish this, and a mucus or bloody discharge, accompanied by severe pain in the bowels. In its common form, or where not chronic, its treatment is not at all difficult. The bowels probably retain a portion of their contents, which irritate them and thus aggravate the inflammation. This must be removed and can easily be accomplished by a few doses of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, which are so gentle in their action as to do the work without bringing on the painful after effects noted by those who are in the habit of using cathartics carrying a large percentage of mineral poisons. Once a thorough evacuation has been secured the use of the pills may be discontinued, though it will be well for the patient to closely watch for any recurrence of the symptoms. It is a good policy to take perfect rest for some days and avoid any work or exercise likely to strain the bowels or abdominal muscles. Warming drinks are by no means to be despised. Should any pain follow the evacuations a little opium may be taken.

Gentlemen: That faint sickly feeling has left me entirely and to-day I am as well as I ever was in my life. It is perhaps needless to say that our home is never without a supply of your wonderful remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Sirs: For the last few months I have been going down the hill of life at a pace unwarranted at my age, in fact was becoming prematurely old, now I thank the Almighty for being a man full of vigor, and without a trace of weakness or sickness. Two boxes of Morse's Indian Root Pills effected a cure, and to-day I stand a new man.

Dear Sirs: I have been an invalid for over 16 years. During that time I have bought many different kinds of pills and would just say that your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are the best. I always keep them in the house. They are always the same and are sure to relieve pain.

Yours in health,
W. A. SMITH.

PILES.

It is doubtful if there is any common form of disease which occasions more discomfort, and in many cases, great physical suffering, than what are known as Piles. In some forms, more particularly in the earlier stages, they are not likely to occasion much trouble beyond a slight irritation which causes more or less itching. Left unattended, however, they are almost certain to increase in irritation and in the end become, not only very painful, but exceedingly dangerous. They are traceable to different causes, or rather come on in different forms, though the original trouble is due to imperfect circulation of the blood. Sometimes an inactive liver prevents the blood from returning to the heart; sometimes the heart itself has a weak action, and often masses of faeces lodge in the bowels and press on the veins to such an extent that the circulation of the blood is interfered with. Then the venous blood settles in the rectum, they become expanded and Piles are the result. What are known as Bleeding Piles are the most to be dreaded, but these are simply an aggravated form of the disease. They often result, if left alone, in cancer of the rectum and are amenable to the knife only. In their treatment many of the hints used in connection with the handling of constipation are applicable. To ensure a permanent cure the blood must be put in good condition; this is where Dr. Morse Pills can be used with such effect.

Gentlemen:—For years I have suffered severely with attacks of piles. Morse's Indian Root Pills gave relief at once and by their occasional use I have cured myself of this most painful malady. I have had no trouble for over a year and believe the cure permanent.

Yours truly,
C. S. SHERMAN.

Sirs: For twenty years I suffered the tortures of the damned from a disease called bleeding piles. I was unable to attend to my work and life was a burden. I tried Morse's Indian Root Pills. One box gave me immediate relief, and by using them according to directions for a short time, I am delighted to say a perfect cure was effected.

Gentlemen: I have used your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills for over five years with excellent results, and I heartily recommend them to the world at large. Have used many others but prefer Dr. Morse's, because they will not gripe and they serve to cleanse the whole system.

Yours truly,
GEO. HOPKINS.

Dear Sirs: I am still using the pills in my family and all are well, with the exception of an occasional cold. I am 62 years of age but as buoyant as a boy and attribute it all to your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, which I always keep in the house and recommend to my friends.

Respectfully yours,

or physical strain, experiences a season of lassitude or unrest. The person experiencing this feeling may treat the matter lightly and indeed such a course is, with some, quite within the bounds of reason and safety. There are occasions, however, when the right thing to do would be to take immediate steps in the direction of improving the quality of the blood, increasing the action of the liver and digestive organs and toning up the system generally. It may, perhaps, not be quite within the bounds of truth to term this period one of gen-

GENERAL DEBILITY.

There generally comes a time in the life of almost every human being when the body, either from over eating, lack of exercise, or too much mental eral debility with all people, but to a great majority it is, and should be looked after with all possible haste. The spring is most often the time of year in which nature asserts herself in this way. There is a strong tendency to avoid any great physical exercise. The sufferer feels an almost unconquerable desire to simply sit down and take things easy, and it is just possible that he may experience dizziness, occasional headaches, and a general lack of interest in things, which deeply interested at other seasons. What is needed is some force, the more natural the better, to purge the body of those debilitating humors, which are causing the trouble, and this force is most effectually supplied in Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. But a few doses are required.

Gentlemen: I was weak and run down. My liver was out of order and I had severe pains in my head. My physician did me no good. I was advised to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills and quickly found relief. I am still using them and shall continue to do so.

Yours,
S. A. KNIGHT.

LA GRIPPE!

The Terror of Modern Days, Yields to the Influence of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

WHAT IT IS AND HOW TREATED.

One of the most dangerous of the modern diseases is la grippe or, in plain English, the grip. The results following are frequently of the most disastrous character. Insanity, consumption and a general breaking down of the system are among them. In many cases grip is but a prelude to death, which follows with more or less certainty within a comparatively short time.

Grip becomes dangerous because it is not properly treated. The doctors say they don't know what it is and, consequently, do but little for you, except to increase your bills without compensating benefits. But they do the best they know. What they do is mostly upon the effect and not upon the cause which produces it. From the highest scientific and medical authorities it is conceded that the disease is produced and propagated by germs, so infinitely small that millions might pass through the eye of a cambric needle at the same time.

They are the exciting cause, brought into existence by certain climatic conditions which introduce or bring about changes in the animal economy that cause their growth, until the system becomes, so to speak, charged with these minute germs of life and destruction.

This dreaded malady has hitherto defied all medical skill. No circumstances in life, no climate or age seems to have any influence in warding off its attacks or shielding from its terrible effects. It is a foe which once admitted into the citadel of the body assumes full control and greedily undermines the most powerful constitution. But the

have such marvelous effect in cleansing the system and fortifying the constitution that it effectually wards off the invader and even if not taken until the foe is at the door and the first symptoms already developed, still its efficacy is such that it speedily sweeps away the relentless hand whose fierce grasp upon the vital forces has won for this wide-spread disease the striking and appropriate term of

G. A. WINDSOR, of Guthrie, Oklahoma, says that he used MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS when threatened with the Grip and that it warded off the disease and saved him a big doctor bill.

HENRY LORD, of Thorpe, Wis., says that he has had the Grip three times, and used only MORSE'S PILLS for it and came out all right. He believes there is no other medicine like it for the grip.

JACKSON C. COPELAND, of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., writes: "I have excellent reason to know the curative qualities of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. I had the grip during the winter of 1892, and used nothing but the Pills which brought me around all right. This winter I had it again and though I tried to get the Pills was unable to do so. For this disease I can heartily recommend DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

R. A. MEECE, of New Hope, Saline Co., Ill., says that DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS are the best and quickest cure for the grip. He had it once and was kept in bed by a doctor for a week. A year after he had it again and used only MORSE'S PILLS which he found much more effective than the doctor's medicine.

G. F. POST, of Chicago, O., said he was attacked with the grip and did not know what was the matter. Knowing that MORSE'S PILLS were good for most everything, he took them and received relief at once. By exposure and imprudence in eating he had a relapse and was very sick. His family were alarmed and wished to send for the doctor, but he persevered with

MORSE'S PILLS and they brought him out all right.

J. S. HARVEY, of Saline, Mo., writes: "From experience in my father's family, and observation in a large circle of friends, I have a strong and abiding conviction of the value of DR. MORSE'S PILLS. They are too widely and favorably known to require words of commendation from me, but I am satisfied that DR. MORSE'S PILLS will ward off many diseases that flesh is heir to. I have used them in the times of 'la grippe' and found them a sovereign remedy. I only speak of what I know, not as a professional, but a practical observer. What I have felt and seen with confidence I tell.' Accept my best wishes and this unasked note."

U. S. MUSICK, Justice of the Peace at Matewan, W. Va., said: "In 1897, I was afflicted with that terrible disease, the grip. I did not think I ever would get well and became very much discouraged. Your agent recommended MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS and I commenced to use them. In a few days I began to feel myself a new man and in a few weeks I was able to go to work again. From that time I have never been without DR. MORSE'S PILLS. I believe I owe my life to them and will do all I can to promote the use of this splendid medicine."

W. A. SMITH, of Homestead, Mich., says: "I have used DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS for five years with good results and heartily recommend them to the world at large. Have used others but prefer DR. MORSE'S because they will not gripe and they serve to cleanse the whole system."

COMSTOCK'S

"DEAD SHOT" PELLETS FOR WORMS.

THE BEST WORM MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.

$1,000 REWARD.

One thousand dollars will be given to any person who will show by analysis that this worm medicine contains any calomel or other poisonous mineral. It is purely vegetable and cannot harm the most delicate child. It is the most effectual remedy known for the eradication of worms. It is made in such form that the children cry for it; and, if for nothing else, it should be commended for this, as a child by crying and other emotions at taking a disagreeable medicine often counteracts the good effect of that medicine. If you have a thoroughly educated physician, have him test the medicine, and we are certain that he will say to you that it is the best known to the scientific world. Don't ask of any of the quacks that infest the rural districts, but go to one that came from some reputable college. Analysis is an easy method to a skillful man of determining the ingredients of any medicine.

Mrs. Hill is an old English nurse of various and extended experience in the foundling hospitals of Great Britain. The following is the result of her five and twenty years' experience: Firstly, That it is best for the mother to be the child's only doctor; to trust herself and believe that the same reason which assists her in comprehending difficult crochet patterns will also enable her to understand a few medical facts and remember them. Secondly, never to give her child white calomel or antimony powder or any of the many soothing syrups, which contain more or less morphine or mercury, that pernicious mineral, which rots the very rats in the mines which yield it.

Thirdly, only to give her children simple physic, and never under any pretense to let her child be blood stained by lancet or leech, these fatal robbers of the red life stream, of which there is never more than enough, and whose proper quantity keeps the heart in motion and the child in life.

Oh! if we were to tell you some of the sad tales culled from a long experience as a medical practitioner, or of the many sweet children we have seen whose bright, laughing eyes have been permanently filmed and closed in lasting sleep from the effect of the too strong doses of ignorance and professional mistakes or recount to you a few of the numberless instances we known of unintentional poisoning by quieting syrups, with calomel and white antimony, where-in the first dose taken has been perceptibly the first downward step towards the poor little innocent's grave.

And now, gentle reader, let me urge you carefully to read through several times the following page and you will then know as much nay more, about worms affecting children and how to cure them, than many of the professed doctors, and being likewise nurses, will be much better able to save life.

SYMPTOMS.

Worms by the consequence of their movements, the interruption they offer to the contents of the bowels, and probably other modes of interruption, generally occasion pain or uneasiness in the abdomen, sometimes spasmodic, sometimes described as gnawing or biting, and not unfrequently of a vague, undescribable character, and yet very distressing. Sympathetic with this is a sensation of itching at the anus and at the nostrils, producing a disposition to scratch the fundament and to pick the nose, which is highly characteristic of this affection. The bowels are often disordered, being sometimes constipated or stopped and sometimes relaxed, with occasional bloody discharges as in dysentery. The discharge is sometimes in shreds or flakes, which are not unfrequently mistaken for fragments of partially digested worms. It is not uncommon for portions of undigested food to pass with the discharges. The appetite is exceedingly variable; in some cases natural and others deficient, craving or depraved, one condition not unfrequently alternating with another. The belly is often hard, swollen and tympanatic, the breath heavy or fetid and the tongue furred, with a disagreeable taste and a copious flow of saliva; swelling of the upper lip, bleeding of the nostrils, and disposition to grind the teeth during sleep are other characteristic symptoms. The effects, however, often extend beyond the alimentary canal, and various derangements of health are experienced in consequence, either of the direct irritation of the worms, or of the disordered digestion which they occasion. Among the most common of these are nervous affection such as fretfulness, irritation of temper, wakefulness or disposition to excessive sleep, disturbed sleep, sudden starting out of sleep as if from fright, dizziness, spasmodic movements of the eyelids, dilated pupils, perverted vision, temporary blindness and partial deafness. General convulsions are not unfrequent in children and symptoms strongly resembling Hydrocephalus have been ascribed to worms and have ceased on their expulsion.

Cases of chorea, or St. Vitus dance, melancholia and hypochondria and even insanity have been referred with the most apparent reason to the same cause. In addition to these affections may be mentioned obstinate cough, spasm of the glottis, palpitation, languid circulation, pale or yellowish skin, sunken eyes, a livid circle about the eyelids and general emaciation. This condition is often accompanied by fever and is then called worm fever. Persons in apparently perfect health may be affected with worms, and it is no unusual event to find worms in the bowels of persons after death, which have given no signs of their presence during life. It is therefore, incumbent on every person who is not feeling well to pay attention to this fact and take some remedy which will remove them if present, and yet do no harm if otherwise. Such a medicine is Comstock's Dead Shot Pellets for Worms, a sure death to worms, but taking no effect if they are absent.
